Richard K Gordon

(LLB 1977) was admitted as a solicitor in 1980. He joined Silverman Sherliker in 1987 as a Partner to head up a fast developing property department. He has been keen to promote and adopt technological advances and has been at the forefront of the changes that have revolutionised the way in which lawyers both work and communicate with their clients. He holds the view that whilst it is easy to underestimate the impact that these innovations have had, he would have difficulty in imagining modern professional life without them.

Nicholas C J Lakeland graduated from LSE, and was admitted as a solicitor in 1990. In 1998 he joined Silverman Sherliker as a Partner, specialising in Employment Law. In his practice he acts mostly for employers from a wide variety of sectors. Having lived in Italy he is bilingual and since joining the firm has established strong links with firms in Italy. He is particularly keen to continue to push out the boundaries of the firm's practice in the international marketplace. He is also involved in the Law Society's Duplicate Bridge club, having for some years been the honorary club secretary.
